

To whom it may concern,

Greg Skaruz is a professional in his industry, who strives to impress the clients he works for. I found him extremely impressive in his approach to the project commissioned by Liquidmedia UK. Greg Skaruz provided a very reliable solution, but also exceeded our expectations, with his hard work and dedication to do a thorough job, without cutting corners, and very approachable and down to earth personality. He would not hesitate to do the little extra, which goes a long way, and was very patient throughout the time of the project. I can recommend Greg Skaruz to any potential business requiring first class expertise in web software development and architecture of intelligent applications for the world wide web.
